Karina Garber is a Pre-Planning Advisor and Veteran Specialist with Dignity Memorial, where she brings compassion, personal experience, and expert knowledge to families navigating end-of-life planning. With a thoughtful and client-first approach, Karina specializes in guiding individuals and families through the often-overwhelming process of selecting cemetery and funeral plans—whether proactively for peace of mind or in times of need.

Karina's passion for helping others stems from her own life experiences. As a teenager, she was faced with the difficult task of helping her family make final arrangements following the sudden loss of her father. Years later, she again navigated the challenges of grief while supporting her children and stepchildren after the unexpected passing of her husband, Greg. These experiences give her a deep understanding of the emotional weight families carry and the importance of thoughtful planning.

Known for her empowering philosophy—"I'm the expert, and you're the boss"—Karina is deeply committed to honoring the wishes of the families she serves. She works with over 40 Dignity Memorial locations, providing clients with detailed information and flexible planning options, including cost-freezing strategies, installment plans, and family-centered decision-making tools.

Karina believes that wise planning is a powerful act of love. Her goal is to help families feel secure, supported, and confident in the choices they make for the future.
